

Tips and Tricks to a Seamless CPH Recertification

START EARLY

You need just 50 CPH credits to maintain your certification, so start early and gradually earn throughout the two years. This will keep you up-to-date on different public health issues as well as providing you with a stress-free recertification process.

IDENTIFY AND CREATE YOUR OWN CREDIT OPPORTUNITIES

Did you know that participating in the CPH Book Club, attending professional public health events, and certain volunteer activities earn you credits? There are many alternative opportunities for earning credits. Don't limit yourself to online courses, visit NBPHE.org to learn which activities will count.

WE ACCEPT CREDITS FROM ANY SOURCE

As long as activities meet the guidelines found in our Recertification Credit Guide, they will count. Databases like the CPH Activity Finder, TRAIN, and the Public Health Learning Navigator are great places to start, offering thousands of courses that count as credits. Each hour completed equals one credit!

JOIN THE CPH LINKEDIN GROUP

Not sure where to find a fellow CPH? Request to join the CPH LinkedIn group to connect with thousands of other CPHs to share crediting opportunities, job opportunities, and more.

TEAM UP WITH ANOTHER CPH PROFESSIONAL

Connect with other CPHs to share crediting opportunities you find valuable.

SHARE YOUR IDEAS

If you know about a conference or other recertification event that other CPH may be interested in, send the information to info@nbphe.org so we can promote it.

ASK OUR STAFF

Not sure if an activity will count for recertification? We're happy to provide guidance—simply email a brief description to info@nbphe.org.

TAKE MORE TIME IF YOU NEED IT

You can extend your recertification cycle by 3 or 6 months. So, no worries if you simply ran out of time, log in to submit a request and you will automatically be granted an extension. Fees are waived for 2021.
